

Women boxers in SA still short-changed

Champs lack opponents to defend titles

By Bongani Magasela

The Women in Boxing committee is nonexistent and female boxers still struggle to get fights despite the resolution taken at the boxing indaba in 2013 that promoters, especially those who get government grants, must include at least two female bouts in their tournaments. And nothing has been done about it.

There are about 25 licensed women boxers in SA and 10 are national champions. Some of those champs have not defended since they won the titles because there are no contenders.

The committee also could not assist Rita Mrwebi, who was denied a visa to travel to Sweden for a fight. It did not congratulate Smangele Hadebe on becoming the first female fighter in SA to win a fully fledged ABU title in February. But Sibusiso Zingange was invited by BSA for breakfast after winning the SA junior- lightweight title in the same tournament.

The WBC has rewarded Hadebe with a top 15 rating.

Boxing SA board member Zandile Kabini is the committee chair. It comprises Letlhogonolo Noge-Tungamirai, Noni Tenge, Esther Mashiya and Liz Butler.

Noge-Tungamirai was a BSA board member while Mashiya and Butler are ex-professional boxers. Tenge is not licensed as a fighter.

Kabini said last year that celebrated sports presenter Lebo Motsoli had joined the committee. It will be interesting to hear what will be discussed in a week-long symposium on women's boxing in Durban from August 22 to 26.

Rampant Bok women thrash Spaniards

Raubenheimer a happy coach

By Mahlatse Mphahlele

The Springbok women's team produced a scintillating performance to convincingly beat Spain 44-5 in the first of two winter series Test matches at Ellis Park on Saturday.

The Springbok women dominated their Spanish counterparts with enterprising running rugby to take a 1-0 lead in this series. The dominating performance showed the significant strides made by the team coached by Stanley Raubenheimer over the past few months.

The impressive win comes shortly after their historic win over Japan and proves they have what it takes to beat teams with a better world ranking.

This is SA's first win over Spain at the fourth attempt dating back to August 2014.

SA will be looking to reproduce this commendable performance and secure the series during the final match on Friday at the Fanie du Toit Stadium in Potchefstroom.

This was also the first time the women played on the same day and at the same venue as their male counterparts. The match was a curtain-raiser to the clash between the Boks and New Zealand.

Raubenheimer will be satisfied with the progress his charges are making as this series is part of the preparations for the World Cup in New Zealand in October.

The Springbok women will go into their final preparation stage before travelling to New Zealand where they have been drawn against France, Fiji and England in their pool stages.

Raubenheimer will also be satisfied that his charges managed to score five unanswered tries from Ayanda Malinga (two), Nadine Roos, Simamkele Namba and Rose-line Botes. It was also a good day at the office for flyhalf Libbie Janse van Rensburg, who was spot on from the kicking tee as she returned with 21 points from six successful conversions and three penalties.

The hosts went ahead after 25 minutes when speedy Malinga outsprinted the Spanish defence to touch in the corner with Janse van Rensburg converting. SA increased their lead from two penalties from the boot of Janse van Rensburg as they began to take control of the match.

The Spaniards, who were perhaps struggling with the altitude, failed to find their footing in the game as the hosts powered home their third try, scored by Namba. SA continued to dominate in the second half with three more tries before Spain registered a consolation try by Marta Carmona after the hooter.
